

Mills Oakley builds Brisbane insolvency & mortgage recovery practice

25 February, 2019

National law firm Mills Oakley has strengthened its leading insolvency & mortgage recovery practice with the hire of partner Jason McCubbin from Thomson Geer in Brisbane.

Jason has over 14 years of experience in advising banks and other financial lenders, insolvency practitioners, boards, senior management and shareholders on a range of banking and finance issues, including secured and unsecured recoveries, insolvency, restructuring, turnaround and governance matters. In addition, he has a wealth of practical experience as a managing director of a medium sized manufacturing and sales business in Queensland.

Jason shares a number of clients with the Mills Oakley insolvency and mortgage recovery team, a factor which Mills Oakley CEO John Nerurker said was significant in this hire: “We often speak of practice synergies, but client synergies are an equally important part of the hiring process,” Mr Nerurker said. “Jason brings a considerable understanding of our clients’ businesses which will enhance our service delivery.”

Mr McCubbin said that he was attracted by the opportunity to grow his practice at Mills Oakley: “Mills Oakley is an acknowledged leader in the insolvency & mortgage recovery area and I am excited to be joining the firm,” he said. “I am particularly looking forward to working with Stephen Dickens and Dale Cliff in the Brisbane Commercial Disputes practice and adding further strength to the team.”

Jason commenced with Mills Oakley last week.
