Mills Oakley welcomes five outstanding new partners

31 August 2023

Mills Oakley is proud to welcome five outstanding new partners to Australia's leading national law firm.

Mills Oakley Chief Executive Officer, John Nerurker, said the high calibre appointments would further boost the firm's capability in the government, finance, workplace relations and corporate advisory practice groups: "We are delighted to welcome five exceptional partners to our growing firm. Each brings a wealth of experience and skills that will benefit our clients and enhance our service offering."

The appointments include:

- Liam Dennis brings more than 15 years' experience working with government. Liam appears in litigation before the Administrative Appeals Tribunal, the Federal Circuit and Family Court, the Federal Court and the High Court. He joins the Sydney office in the Public Law practice group.
- Norman Donato has more than 35 years' experience across corporate, commercial and finance law. Norman is a specialist in the banking and finance sector, particularly securities and duties law and joins the Banking and Finance group in Sydney.
- Rob Humphreys to the Workplace Relations team. Rob is a leading employment and workplace health and safety lawyer in the Perth market. He primarily advises employers in the resources and construction sectors, universities and government-owned corporations.
- Jeremy Rees is well known in the Adelaide market for legal services, including event management, private mergers and acquisitions, trusts and general commercial practice. He has joined the Corporate Advisory group.
- Trent Taylor to the M&A/ Corporate Advisory team in Brisbane. Trent brings deep industry knowledge spanning agribusiness, manufacturing, distribution and franchising, health and fitness, tourism, technology, and online and professional services.

Commenting on the new appointments, John Nerurker said Mills Oakley was pleased to continue attracting experienced practitioners across the country, complementing the firm's strong internal growth.

"We are committed to providing the right opportunities for leaders in our industry, to ensure the best experience for the clients we serve."
